

2017 PRESERVATION PROFILE

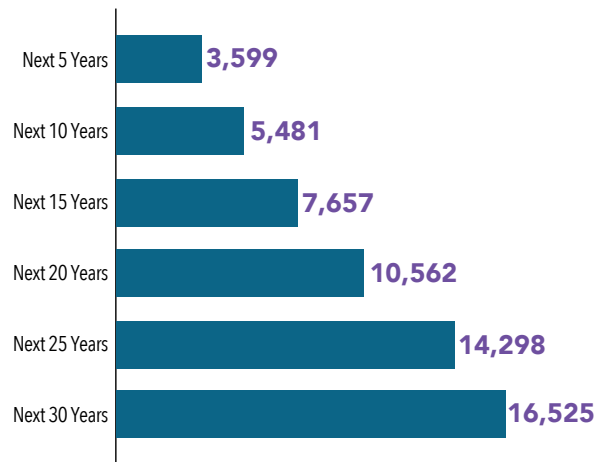

SOUTH DAKOTA

The US Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and the US Department of Agriculture (USDA) programs play an important role in providing affordable homes to extremely low-income (ELI) families across the state. Many of the publicly supported homes, however, face expiring contracts and are at risk of becoming unaffordable to the state's lowest-income families.

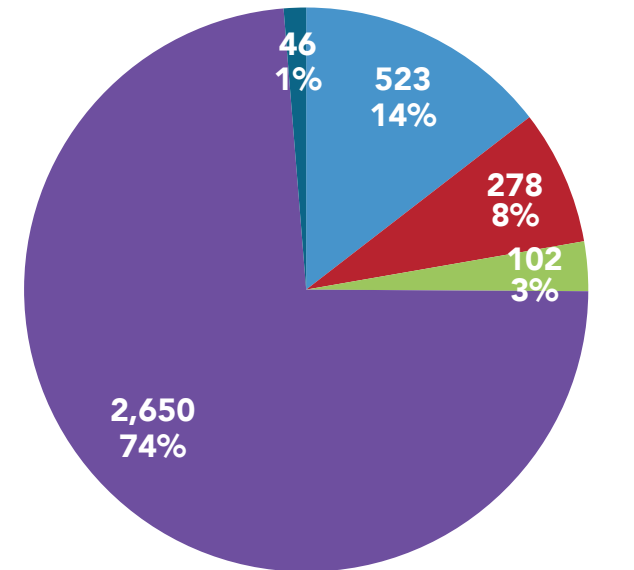

NUMBER OF PUBLICLY SUPPORTED RENTAL HOMES BY PROGRAM

PUBLICLY SUPPORTED RENTAL HOMES AT RISK OF LOSS

PUBLICLY SUPPORTED RENTAL HOMES WITH EXPIRING AFFORDABILITY RESTRICTIONS WITHIN FIVE YEARS BY FUNDING STREAM

■ LIHTC ■ Multiple ■ Other HUD ■ Section 8 ■ USDA

Two-in-five publicly supported rental homes across the state receive Low Income Housing Tax Credits.

*Other includes Section 236 HUD Insured Mortgages, Section 202 Direct Loans, and State Section 236.

Note: Rental units can be supported by multiple programs.

One-in-six publicly supported rental homes face an expiring affordability restriction in the next five years.

Nearly three quarters of publicly supported rental homes with expiring affordability restrictions in the next five years are assisted by Section 8 contracts.

KEY FACTS

15,782

Shortage of rental homes affordable and available for ELI renters

18,223

ELI households spending more than half of their income on rent

18,983

Number of publicly supported rental homes

3,599

Number of publicly supported rental homes with affordability restrictions expiring in next five years